C DR. M'QUILLAN ADDRESSES WEST-ELLIS GRADUATES

Large Assemblage of Friends Present at Exercises-Interesting Program.

Patriotism marked each feature of the nurses' graduation held at West-Ellis hospital Tuesday night, when they finished the course prescribed by Drs. George R. West and G. Manning Ellis, president and vice-president of the institution, the Misses Edith Mc-Broom, Sarah M. Pratt, Berniedetta

Haley and Adair Anderson.

The decorations were in the patriotic colors. A frieze was formed by American flags around the large drawing rooms wherein the exercises were held. Vases of roses and carnations were placed about the room.

A musical program of much excel-lence was furnished by Mrs. W. H. Pryor, Charles Her and Mr. Cain, of Fort Oglethorpe. The accompanists Fort Oglethorpe. The accompanists were Prof. Roy Lamont Smith, Mr. of the army post, and Miss Williams. Mrs. Pryor sang "Moon, Dear, Be Near," and gave for an en-core "Joan of Arc." Mr. Cain sang "O Little Mother of Mine" and "I Love

Charles Her played an original ar-rangement of "Bonnie Sweet Bessie." The program was presided over by Dr. G. Manning Ellis, who announced the numbers, making a graceful introductory address.

Since people turn to lawyers in the adjustment of minor difficulties in the major affairs of life, the doctor and the nurse are the arbitors, and it is incumbent upon the latter to exercise supreme self-control, and no matter what condition arises, show no anger. Taking the individual condition as a basis, Dr. McQuillan took up the pa-triotic question and dealt with Gerany as a sick nation requiring drastic treatment, the success of which de-pends chiefly in the elimination of anger and hysteria on the part of the allied nations as operators. Germany will be conquered only as the conquering nations keep their heads on their shoulders.

Dr. McQuillan, as an alienist, used many strong arguments and his address abounded in pointed Epigrams.

Miss Edith McBroom read a mas-terly paper on the history of nursing finding its inception among the Jews and early Christians-Florence Night-Clara Barton and the modern engale. Clara Barton and the modern Red Cross movement formed sub-divisions of the address.

Concord Baptist Church Scene of Pretty Wedding Wednesday Afternoon.

The wedding of Miss Stella Elnora McDonald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. McDonald, and Lewis William Currier, of North Carolina, was solemn-ized this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at Concord Baptist church east of Misssionary ridge. Rev. L. H. Sylar officiated. About one hundred guests were present.

The church was attractively decorated. An improvised arch from which a wedding bell was suspended and entwined in white roses, sweet peas and ivy, with a back ground of palms was very effective.

Miss Nora Lee Wofford rendered the nuptial music, playing the wedding march from Lohrengrin as the bridal party entered and Mendelssohn's wedding march as recessional. Preceding the ceremony, Miss Jean Marvin sang. Oh Promise Me?

The attendants were Misss Leola Mc-Donald, sister of the bride, maid of honor; Miss Effite Mae McDonald, bridesmaid; Charles Currier, of Buffalo, N. Y., brother of the groom, best Following the exercises the large audience spent an enjoyable social period in which ice cream, cake and punch were served.

Miss Leola McDonald wore white net and carried an arm bouquet of white carnations.

Mirs Effic Mac McDowell was attired in pink silk. Her flowers were pink carnations. Both young ladies were white lace picture hats. Little Misses McDonald, Corbly and onner were dainty lace frocks with nk trimmings.

Mrs. Currier is a member of the 1915 graduating class of Central High school. She is one of the most popular young women of this community.

Mr. Currier is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Currier, of Morristown, Tenn. For the past winter he has been instructor of English and science at Bingham Institute, North Carolina. Mr. and Mrs. Currier received many beautiful and useful gifts, including flat silver, cut glass, china and linen. The young couple have gone on a southern wedding trip, and upon their return will be at home with the bride-

WHY SERVE SOLDIERS DRINK?

It is Not Illegal, But Army Officers Say it is Causing Much Trouble. Mistaken Notions of Hospitality.

(New York Times.)

The regulations of the United States army do not prohibit the serving of homes. On this condition hangs at the present time one of the most troublesome situations with which the camp officers have to deal. The law which forbids the serving of liquor to sol-diers in public places, and its sale in any circumstances, is strictly, en-forced. "Bootlegging" is being combated by the military police, the civil police, and the agents of the department of justice. But there is no rul-ing under which drinking in private nouses can be controlled, and the army is faced by a somewhat baffling state of affairs, not only in a mistaken sense of hospitality, but in the abuse of the private home privilege of serv ing liquor to "get around" the law forbidding its sale.

One officer at Camp Merritt summed up: "The saloonkeepers are behaving themselves. But only aroused public opinion can stop the serving of liquor in private houses; and I wish it would arouse itself and get on the

The army regulation is as follows: "Alcoholic liquor, including beer, ale and wine, either alone or with any other article, shall not, directly or indirectly, be sold, bartered, given, served, or knowingly delivered to any officer or member of the military forces, except when administered for medical purposes by or under the di rection of a regularly licensed physiian or army surgeon, provided tha this regulation shall not apply to the giving or serving of such liquor in a private home to members of the fam-ily or bona fide guests." It is obviously in the last three words—"bona fide guests"—that the trouble comes. "The custom of serving liquor to in private houses is all an officer observed; "and, frankly, it makes us a good deal of trouble. Not a tremendous amount—I don't want to exaggerate—but some. "People ought not to entertain sol-diers with liquor. They know that Soldiers are not supposed to drink.

They know that drunkenness is punished, and that if an officer gets drunk he loses his commission. And yet pain thoroughly at each application.—

soldiers, but make a point of serving so much that the soldier can hardly avoid intoxication. They aren't conarmy do not prohibit the serving of tent with giving a man a cocktail beget a supply of drinks in the house and—in perfect good faith and simply in carrying out their idea of hospitality—they expect it all to be drunk up at once."

> WILSON RENEWS EFFORT TO SAVE MOONEY'S LIFE

Writes Letter to Governor Urg. ing That There Be No Miscarriage of Justice.

(International News Service.) Washington, June 5 .- President Wilson had renewed his efforts to save the life of Tom Mooney, between whom and the gallows stands only executive clemency by Gov. Stevens, of Call-fornia. It became known here today that the president has sent another telegram to the California governor, urgently requesting action that will make certain of no miscarriage of justice. The president had already appealed to Gov. Stevens and sent a personal commission headed by Secretary of Labor Wilson, to California which after examining the evidence, reported grave doubts of Mooney's having been given a fair trial.

The nerves of the body are not unlike the telegraph system at the Front. The millions of nerve filaments are like a network of wires that keep all the trenches in close sympathy and communion. Food supplies and reinforcements are dis-patched here and there and so the nerves send increased blood and nourishment where it is most required. The nerve cells guide the heart and stomach. By this means the stream of blood lader with nourishment is sent to every part of
